School to Home – Week 9

Dear Parents and Carers,

Not long now! Just one more day of home schooling.

Then there will be Peace At Last in all the households in Quedegely, unless you are lucky enough to have a Tiger Who Came to Tea! Your Little Prince and Little Miss Sunshine might have some First Day Jitters or they might be A Little Stuck in The Magic Bed. They will definitely need an extra Squash and a Squeeze, Just Because they may have enjoyed being in A Place Called Home. We will Be Kind and try not to be The World's Worst Teachers! Instead we will try to make them Wonder, make their lessons Awesome so they might become the Smartest Giant in Town. Well Done for making it work at Home, Tomorrow Will be a Good Day.

We are now getting very excited to welcoming back all our children and families to school next Monday, 8th March. Please read the Frequently Asked Question sheet included with this newsletter and email or phone if you have any other questions.

There has been much news coverage about 'catch up'. Our plan is to first settle the children back into school and routine, then we'll think about what knowledge and skills would be useful for every child to learn before the end of the summer term. The phone calls to families at home has helped us understand your child; our additional funding will be used to support each individual this academic year and beyond. Look out for more information about this next week.
